DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 27 May 2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent; except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 6,274,821 B1 (Echigo).

Echigo discloses, referring primarily to figure 1, a multilayer circuit board, comprising; a plurality of cable layers (L1r, L2r), each of which includes electric conductive sections (6); a plurality of first insulating layers (L1r, L2r), each of which encloses said electric conductive sections in each cable layer and fills spaces between said electric conductive sections, each of said electric conductive sections of each of said cable layers including a cable pattern (6) and a land pad (11); post vias (7) electrically connecting said electric conductive sections in one cable layer to those in another cable layer, wherein height of said electric conductive sections in each cable layer are equal to that of said first insulating layer enclosing said electric conductive sections; and a second insulating layer (L1i), which is formed to enclosed said post vias, wherein height of said post vias equal to that of said second insulating layer and each said first insulating layer and each said second insulating layer are made up of a film (linear long chain alkylene or arylene part in a main skeleton) covered with an insulating material (epoxy resin; col. 4, lines 45-55) [claim 1].

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 27 May 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. First, Applicant alleges "Echigo does not however describe a method for forming the layers and does not disclose in the text that the heights of electric conductive sections are equal to the height of a first insulating layer enclosing them, and that the heights of post vias are equal to the height of a second insulating layer enclosing them". However, Applicant has claimed a product and not a method of forming said product. It has been held "even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process. In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966

(Fed. Cir. 1985). Thus Applicants arguments regarding the method of production of the device are moot since the patentability of the claim is based on the claimed structure. Additionally, Applicant insinuates that Echigo does not disclose that the first and second insulating layers are made up of a film covered with an insulating material. However, Echigo discloses that the layers may comprise an alkylene skeleton embedded in an epoxy resin which fits Applicant's claimed limitation of a film covered with an insulating material. Thus Applicant's traversal of the instant rejection on these grounds is deemed unsuccessful.
